PHILANTHROPIC INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITIES

Giving to the College of Arts and Sciences allows donors to make a positive impact on a broad scale. As home to more than 200 major programs of study, there are many opportunities to make a gift that is personally meaningful and will help current and future Seminoles secure an outstanding education or conduct groundbreaking research. Additional philanthropic investment is critical for the college to elevate student success and increase faculty impact.

The dean's fundraising priorities include:

- ⇒ Creating much-needed graduate fellowships to attract and support top graduate students, allowing them to focus on writing and research that will enhance the university's national reputation
- ⇒ Strengthening funding for faculty support initiatives that allow for the recruitment and retention of the best and brightest scholars, including members of the prestigious national academies
- ⇒ Generating critical support for FSU's initiatives and important research in health and the sciences
- ⇒ Establishing new postdoctoral awards that help enhance FSU's prestige by supporting research
- ⇒ Developing opportunities for undergraduates to collaborate with faculty members on summer research projects, giving students hands-on lab experience
