

College of Communication and Information

The Florida State University College of Communication and Information has deep roots embedded within each of its three schools—Communication, Communication Science and Disorders and Information—and a proud history of academic achievement, research and service by faculty, students and alumni. In just 10 years, the college has grown to include research centers and institutes, state-of-the-art information technology, the Innovation Hub, Seminole Productions, the Schendel Speech and Hearing Clinic, WVFS Tallahassee and the Internship and Outreach Office, which partners with many community businesses and non-profit organizations to provide real-world work and service-learning experiences. The college's programs emphasize professions and activities that enable graduates to gain the knowledge and skills they need to succeed in the 21st century.

YOUR SUPPORT PROVIDES

- ◆ Sustainment of student and professional organizations
- ◆ Service learning and mentoring opportunities
- ◆ Faculty recruitment and retention
- ◆ Student scholarships
- ◆ Student travel to conferences and award ceremonies

459 bachelor's degrees, 224 master's degrees and 10 doctoral degrees awarded in the 2018–2019
academic year

96.5%
FSU's highest graduation rate after entering our undergraduate majors

86% FSU's highest employment and graduate school rate at the time of graduation