

College of Nursing

3.8 average GPA for incoming students in 2019

96% of May 2019 graduates were employed within six months of graduation

90% retention/graduation rate in 2019

The Florida State University College of Nursing prepares undergraduate and graduate nurses for professional practice per our mission, “to educate clinicians, leaders, scholars and advanced practitioners who can enhance the quality of life for people of all cultures, economic levels and geographic locations.”

The college achieves this mission by educating highly talented students who are prepared to pursue professional careers that address culturally-diverse health care needs, developing and refining knowledge for nursing education and practice that supports improving health care access and outcomes of care and building healthier communities in collaboration with professional and community health care providers.

YOUR SUPPORT PROVIDES

- ◆ Student scholarships and clinical awards
- ◆ Research initiatives and equipment
- ◆ Classroom supplies and materials
- ◆ Technology upgrades, especially for the college's Simulation Lab
- ◆ Graduate fellowships and named professorships
- ◆ Community outreach
- ◆ Travel for conferences and meetings